

Energy Efficiency and Demand Management Conference 2007

Tuesday 20th November 2007

RACV Club

501 Bourke Street, Melbourne

Growing the market

The Clean Energy Council expands its focus on Australia's efficient and competitive energy future by hosting the 2007 Australian Energy Efficiency and Demand Management Conference.

The Clean Energy Council's "2007 Energy Efficiency and Demand Management Conference" will appeal to industry sectors who are investigating business opportunities within the Energy Efficiency and Demand Management sphere. Our expectation is that the 2007 Conference will be bigger and better than before.

The 2007 Australian Energy Efficiency and Demand Management Conference will showcase the latest residential, commercial, regulatory, policy, environmental and technological developments that impact on energy efficiency and demand management.

TOPICS COVERED

- Victorian Government Initiatives for Energy Efficiency
- An industry agenda for Energy Efficiency & Demand Management in Australia
- Policy Measures — the good, the bad & the way forward!
- Insulation in focus
- Building an Energy Smart Nation
- Buildings Roundtable
- Local Government — an integral pathway to follow
- Residential Energy Efficiency benchmarks
- The direction for the Commercial Sector
- "Connections & Pipes" (Solar Water Heating) Session
- Industrial Energy Efficiency — improving performance

The Clean Energy Council is Australia's new peak body for the renewable energy, energy efficiency and low greenhouse gas emission generation industry. It was formed in September 2007 through the merger of the Australian Business Council for Sustainable Energy (BCSE) and the Australian Wind Energy Association (Auswind) which comprises over 350 member businesses.
